

6516208752.txt

I have XM radio and do not want its programming limited by the special interest group of the NAB. This is a new innovative service which is what makes our economy grow and advances new technology benefits to the public. Current FCC policy seems to be reducing regulation of new tech such as internet and eliminating regulation of the cable tv and telephone industry. The FCC should be consistent with these policies and NOT increase regulation of SAT radio with new interpretations that would reduce consumer choice. Respectfully,
Gary Larson